An employee was observed using the three-compartment sink to clean and sanitize pots and pans. When asked to test the sanitizing solution from the three-compartment sink, Employee #11 dipped the test strip into the solution and quickly withdrew it. Employee #11 was unable to verbalize how long the test strip should remain inserted in the sanitizing solution and what the expected result of the test should be. Employee #8 who was present at the time was asked to test the sanitizing solution and correctly completed the test. However, the sanitizing solution tested at less than 200 Parts per Million (PPM). Posted manufacturer's recommendations for testing the sanitizing solution are to dip the test strip in the solution for ten (10) seconds and the color change to the test strip should indicate a level between 200 to 400 PPM. The sanitizing solution was discarded and another solution was initiated. At the time of observation, Employee #13 had just begun to clean and disinfect the pots and pans. 2.
